

Request for information

for inclusion in the

National Workforce Directory for Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Health Workers and Other Health Professionals

A Quality Improvement Initiative

The Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Health Worker Journal is committed to the development of useful resources for everyone who works in Indigenous Health Service Provision.

We are in the process of producing a National Workforce Directory that will be available both in hard copy and online via the Journal's web site. It will be updated every two years.

We have embarked on this project based on the need for such a resource. A Project Directory Committee will work with the Journal's editor and staff through all stages of its planning, production and evaluation.

We are asking all our readers and other interested parties to complete the form below to help make the National Workforce Directory a success.
